

Worldview Times

Kinsey's Sex in the Pulpit

4/01/09

Kinsey's Sex in the Pulpit

By Judith Reisman

though I am unqualified to pontificate on theology I am fully qualified to speak to the sexual issues that ly appear in theological writings, from pulpits, and even broadcasts on the YouTube worldwide.

certainly sexual matters should be understood by clergy. Post the Kinsey sexual revolution (Sexual Behavior in the Male, 1948) the world is awash in the promiscuity that always spawns a flood of sex crimes against women and kin and non-kin, crimes and betrayals that generate abortions, "illegitimacy," and scores of new venereal diseases-g, AIDS.

naturally our pornographic explosion, begun by Playboy in 1953, now poison's us all; our government officials, rofessors, schoolteachers, men, women, children, and yes clergy.

posing Catholic priests as pederasts and pedophiles has delighted the licentious media, but arrests of child media mavens, teachers, rabbis, and pastors do not similarly whet the media appetite.

et, religious believers, like all others are tainted by the sexual revolution. In November 2004 Dr. Ted Baehr, of the Christian Movieguide wrote that sex addicts "like Kinsey," promote sex addiction for others.

cently, the New York Times had an article admitting that Alfred Kinsey made a lot of mistakes in his earch on human sexuality, but the article commended Kinsey for showing that all men masturbate and the ority of people are bisexual.

her Kinseyites have insisted this is normal male conduct at four times a day. Christian author, Archibald art, in his book The Sexual Man claims "Almost all (96 percent) of the males under age twenty in my

... masturbate regularly.... 61 percent of all married men surveyed masturbate." Imagine saying, right the middle of a meeting, "Excuse me, I have to go do what Kinsey tells me to do because he says everyone does it." 1[1]

m/2004/11/2

D-to-kinsey/Gradualism,
n Valley,
, 24, 7.
School
rvan, Grand at 18, 71.
Talk
r Child
dia,
uis, Missouri,

cculture.org/
v.cfm?id=35
083&CFTOK

o, says Dr. Baehr, neither I nor "people I know" engage in such lonely and feeble conduct. Dr. Hart, who appears on Dr. James Dobson's radio program has not announced he is one of his alleged 61 percent of addicted husband abusers. As Baehr sees it, a whole generation "bought the Kinsey lie," and some religious authors and pastors are spreading the bad news.

The early Kinseyan, "Christian" sexologist educator Paul Cameron, PhD., lectured and taught at the Fuller Theological Seminary 1976-1979. In 1978 Cameron's book Sexual Gradualism, told parents to "allot a room, privacy, a bathroom, a [TV], and snacks for their teenagers to practice [sexual] gradualism...without fear of adult disapproval."

EXPLICIT LANGUAGE IS ELIDED BUT SOME FOLLOWS: Dr. Cameron's "gradualism," said under age 13 and hugging, etc., is allowed in the private room. By age 13 "Level 4: Breast fondling, manipulating, sucking" are allowed. By age 14 at "Level 5" add "Mutual hand exploration of genitals, mutual masturbation," etc.,[excised here]. At age 15 the children get "Total nudity" and at "Level 7: Oral sex..." is added to compliment the TV and snacks.

Dr. Cameron also taught Christian teachers and parent groups that both sodomy types are child friendly in the bedroom." Such credible training would silently seep into "Christian" sexual theology by confused seminarians and pastors and clergy.²[2]

Hundreds of similar Christian and secular "Abstinence" education programs have been found K-12. For example, David Lynn, in Zondervan's More High School Talksheets tells his teachers tell children to "write what they think about the words Sex, Horny, Lust, The "F" word," etc. Literacy is of course a vital skill.³[3]

In 1998 Lenore Bauth's Concordia sex education book How to Talk Confidently to Your Child About Sex, for Children and Their Parents are Sexual Beings, Too, regurgitates Kinsey's Toxic Lie; that children are sexual from birth:

It may be surprising to realize that our children are sexual beings from birth. For instance, a parent changing a male infant's diaper may accidentally stimulate the child and be shocked to realize the child is having an erection. Similarly, researchers tell us that baby girls have vaginal lubrication regularly. In fact, a little girl being bounced on her parent's knee may feel pleasant sensations and begin to make natural pelvic thrust movements.⁴[4] [Emphasis added]

Bauth's only theological "expert" for eroticizing baby girls and boys would be Kinsey and his pedophile followers. Physiologically, all mucosal exit/entry organs (nose, ears, vagina, etc.) are lubricated to filter/enable passage of fluids! The reflexive nervous and vascular reactions of the phallus responds to urinary build-up, friction, infections, and fear, all wholly unconnected to a child's non-existent libido.

In 2000, Harcourt Religion Publishers came out with Growing in Love (GIL), a program for Catholic grade school children (K-8). The Catholic Wanderer reports:

Growing in Love is so utterly disgusting and depraved in its explicit description of perverted sex acts, including oral sex techniques for male and female heterosexuals and homosexuals, and so in-your-face with 'gay and lesbian agitprop,' that it just might spark enough public outrage to force the American hierarchy and the Vatican to bring this 50-year anti-life, anti-child, anti-family, and anti-God experiment to a merciful end.

The Wanderer notes that the sexual frauds taught by Kinsey in 1948 as "graduate-level course material for oral sex therapists, nurses, doctors, biologists, and sex educators" has inevitably percolated down to "little children beginning in kindergarten in Growing in Love." This includes teaching children the "bizarre and self-destructive abuses of the sexual faculties by deviants."⁵[\[5\]](#)

Now that Kinsey's cult has spread worldwide via the mass media and "sex education," the result is hardly healthier for children and families. This brings us to Pastor Mark Driscoll's bizarre public sex jokes as well as another YouTube video that arrogantly charges his congregants to have spousal sex daily for a week (links here)

The Christian WorldView Cathy Mickels co-author of Spiritual Junk Food: asks "if Mark Driscoll, pastor of the First Church in Seattle is qualified to lead" 6,000 parishioners. Making oral sex [a common form of early child sexual abuse] a part of marital love on the YouTube is what Cathy Mickels calls the "pornification of the pulpit." However, as is often the case, such pseudo intimate nostrums reflect the fraudulently trained Kinseyan therapists and counselors commonly found in the worldwide religious community.

See YouTube videos of Mark Driscoll (viewer warning advised).

Mark Driscoll: Is He Qualified To Lead?

Mark Driscoll on "Biblical Oral Sex" (YouTube)

Mark Driscoll on "Masturbation as Birth Control" (YouTube)

Who Would Jesus Smack Down? (NYT)

Mark Driscoll with D.L. Hughley on CNN (CNN video)

Mark Driscoll's 100 Day Young Sex Challenge (AP Video)

1084 words

<http://www.drjudithreisman.com>

Kinsey Syndrome <http://www.kinseysyndrome.com>

Here to Read and Post Feedback

page to a friend

Top of Form

Bottom of Form

Hosted by www.ChristianWorldviewNetwork.com

Reisman

for bio and archived articles

Christian Worldview Weekend, Christian Worldview Network and its columnists do not necessarily endorse or agree with every opinion expressed in every article posted on this site. We do however, encourage a healthy and friendly debate on the issues of our day. Whether you agree, we encourage you to post your feedback by using the feedback button.

WS

